Diffee Consulting provides support for administrators of programs serving students with disabilities of all types, as well as specialized training to deaf education teachers and interpreters. Districts may contract services that meet their needs without the expense of hiring full-time staff. Many services can be provided remotely using electronic communication and Internet video-conferencing technology.

Dan Diffee is a certified teacher of the deaf, administrator, and sign language interpreter. He has over thirty years experience as an interpreter, a teacher of the deaf, an administrator of deaf education programs in the public school, and most recently as a consultant and staff developer in special education instruction and administration.

Services provided include:
